

Help With Affordable Housing in the Bay Area

Habitat for Humanity's 20-home project in nearby Martinez is nearly 80% done - volunteers still needed!

Habitat is a nationwide Christian non-profit organization that builds new homes for low-income families to buy. Even in high-cost areas like ours, Habitat is able to make decent and safe homes practical thanks to donations, no-profit mortgage loans, and most importantly, volunteers!

More than 90% of the labor in building a Habitat home is volunteers – men and women, from 16 to 85 – all are welcome! The commitment is only for one day – no experience or tools are needed -- Habitat supplies everything, and trains you on the job.

CPC Member Mike Heller is a regular Habitat volunteer, and would be pleased to tell you more about this project (plus one coming soon near the Pleasant Hill BART station), and the opportunities to demonstrate God's love (and change a family's whole life) by serving our community, right here close to home. mike6heller@comcast.net.
